Narberth Splits Pair of League Close Ones

Davismen Lose to Coatesville, Win From Berwyn by 2-1 Scores

TOUGH ON HERRMANN

By JOHN MULLIGAN
Narberth baseball team presented an unusual picture in the brace of Main Line League games played over last week-end. Both contests ended in a 2-1 score, but Manager Gene Davis' gang was able to win only one.

On Saturday the borough club invaded Coatesville and dropped a heart-breaker to Perk Richards' rejuvenated array, which is right up at the top of the ladder so far. Clashing with Berwyn on Sunday, the Davismen eked out a decision over the ancient rival in ten hectic innings at Narberth.

Al Herrmann, burly righthander, was victim of a heart-breaker at Coatesville. He gave up only four safeties while his teammates collected ten. However, failure to hit with men on base and some shabby fielding sent the homesters down.

Tommy Byrne and Joe Dougherty hooked up in a grand pitchers' duel at Narberth and the former came out on top with the help of errors on Berwyn's part. Dan Redmond's team grabbed a first-inning lead of one run on hits by Lynn Tarleckie and Don Verna, the former scoring on Mike Davis' flyout.

Narberth tied the score in the sixth. Joel Rubineau slapped a single to center which slipped through Willie Gallagher's legs. When he retrieved the ball his throw to Verna was muffed and "Ruby" circled the bases.

In the tenth, Mickey Gavin was struck by a Dougherty pitch and Tanny Ralston popped to the infield. Then Rubineau bounced to shortstop and the ball slipped through Tarleckie. Gavin dashed home with the deciding tally.

Pitcher Hits

Narberth's lone tally was earned in the opener. Mickey Gavin crashed a resounding triple to right. After Harry Ralston hit out to third, Rubineau poked a one-bagger to drive in Gavin. Thus it can be seen that "Ruby" played an impressive part in the week-end double bill.

Herrmann worked along in fine style and deserved to win. Giving up only those four hits, he whiffed seven and walked four. Perk Smith, who got the decision, fanned two and issued three walks.

Herrmann had two singles to share hitting honors with Gavin and Harry Ralston. George Gazella, former Villanova College infielder, got a double in four trips to the plate.

Scout Executives Enlist Less Than Fourth of Boys

Of the 437 boys who become of scout age annually on the Main Line, only 100 become boy scouts. Rodney K. Wenrick, assistant field executive of the Valley Forge Council, Boy Scouts of America, told the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotarians at this week's meeting.

Wenrick gave four ways in which club members might help in scout work: (1) Organizing boy scout troops; (2) active participation in scout work; (3) financial aid; (4) activity in the merit badge program.

Rotarians now active in scout work include W. J. Drennen, vice-president, who is chairman of the Main Line Activities Committee, and Lieutenant Walter Brown, meeting chairman, who is a member of Mr. Drennen's committee.

Y.; Gordon Timpan, second tenor and pianist, Flint, Mich.

Around Our Town

We don't know what this baseball playing world is coming to. First it's Zulus and now it's donkeys. This donkey game, that the Narberth Ball Club had scheduled for last evening, provided plenty of food for speculation. In fact, our curiosity was so aroused that we immediately set out to find out more about the subject. We were bitterly disappointed, however, not to have been able to interview the donkeys themselves, but it seems that the famed quadrupeds were just not available. We could already see the conference in our mind's eye: A nice cosy stable decorated in the new summer sunset colors, several neat stalls with a small shelf for each and every player, on which reposed bats, gloves and other paraphernalia, all tidily monogrammed with Eloise, Philbert, Alice, and perhaps even Oscar on them. We could hear the proud caretaker say, as he turned to one stall with a sweeping gesture, "This is Elmentrude. She is a fine base-runner-arounder when she's in the mood, but she is very temperamental; varies her speed according to the sound of the bat connecting with the ball, and she won't run on a bunt at all."

Gene Davis tells us that this donkey baseball is getting to be quite the thing. It is comparatively new around Philadelphia, but has had about a two-year start in the south and in New York. We must stop now and go put our pet turtle away; one never knows what they will think of next.

The great American sport of the hour seems to be bagatelle. The rivalry among the devotees of the sport at Davis' runs quite high they say. Among the past masters at the art, and prize winners from way back are Bill Durbin, Ed Gillfillan. When questioned about his particular technique, Bill replied modestly that he had no particular system. (Those of us who have struggled along with elaborate systems with no success whatsoever, are inclined to agree with him that systems are rather futile.) He says that he can work for days at the thing and finally get a pretty good score and then someone will bring up his little five-year-old, start the thing for him and the kid will make an unprecedented score. We're sure, however, that hard work and a careful study of the idiosyncrasies of the machine account for Bill's success.

An interesting game that can be played in Davis' or Shea's Drug store is "What will he ask for?" This is played by sitting at the counter and when a child comes in, you whisper to your companion, "This one looks like the glass-of-water-type." If the child asks for a glass of water, you get one point. If he or she drinks more than one sip, you get two points. If he or she drinks the whole thing your score is five. If, however, the unpredictable infant asks for a handful of straws, or a paper cup, you have to subtract a point. Try it sometime.

74 Families on Relief

There are seventy Lower Merion and four Narberth families now on the direct relief rolls in Montgomery County.

Dy-Dee Wash is Not Welcome in Bala

Union Avenue Residents Protest Plan to Move Plant From Narberth

DECISION IS WITHHELD

The plan of the William J. Smith estate to lease the property now occupied by the Bala garage to Thomas J. Skillman, Jr., and Philip Foote as a plant site for the latter's Dy-Dee Wash does not meet with the approval of residents of Union avenue, Bala-Cynwyd, on which the premises are located at No. 111.

This week Philip Foote, one of the Dy-Dee Wash proprietors, announced that his company would not move into Bala-Cynwyd even if the board decided in its favor. He said it was likely the industry would move into Philadelphia.

Residents who appeared before the Lower Merion Board of Adjustment last week on the hearing of an appeal brought by the estate included: James K. O'Brien, 139 Union avenue; Joseph P. Golden, Union avenue; David Carr, 122 Union avenue, and Robert Taggart, 144 Union avenue. Leaders of the protest maintain that many other residents, now on vacation, would join them if they were home.

The baby garments' laundry is now located at 719 Montgomery avenue, Narberth, but its popularity has necessitated several expansions and a larger permanent plant is needed.

The Board of Adjustment withheld decision in the matter, although it was indicated by the board's solicitor, W. Logan MacCoy, that the Smith estate, of which Allen J. Smith is the heir, was within its legal rights in leasing the building to Messrs. Skillman and Foote.

Members of the salt water fishing committee of the Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club drew up plans for a deep sea outing this week, meeting at the home of A. S. Clift, of Woodside avenue, Narberth.

Lodge Almost Deserted As Boys Fare Far Afield For Adventure

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of letters from Ranger Lodge at Casco, Maine.)

Canoe trips and the annual sojourn to Quebec were the highlights of the week at Ranger Lodge. At one time there were so few people in camp that Cook Jim Cairns questioned whether it was worth while to start a fire.

Wednesday a party of twenty-five, driven by Pop Fowler and several of his capable assistants, left for the Canadian city to be gone for four days. Due to inclement weather they returned a day earlier than expected, but not before they had had a chance to visit the plains of Abraham, St. Anne de Beaupre, and other famous points of interest in that historic city. Paul Monahan and Burt Davis headed a list of souvenir hunters whose collections were the object of much envy from their cabin mates. Jack Townsend, Dan Karcher and Charley Herbert rendered the most colorful accounts of the journey in their own inimitable way.

Later the same day another group departed to conquer the windy waters of Long and Sebago Lakes, planning to be away for five days. But the moisture of old Jupe Pluvius overtook them as well and a rescue party was dispatched early Friday morning to Raymond, where they were all huddling on somebody's front porch like drowned rats. John Sellers proved to be largest eater on the trip and was back for his seventh helping before John "Macbeth" Martin had commenced to parcel out the food. According to Councilor Bob Wood, Joe Clausen and Bud Nold were the staunchest paddlers in the crowd, while Chick Dawson and Rolly Young contented themselves with pushing the water past the canoe.

Evidently undismayed by this abruptly interrupted trip, Bob Smith corralled a few more strongarms and set out to return the canoes to the starting point. This time it only took

Building Injunction Denied, But Plaintiff Wins Damages

An injunction sought by Guy D. Bailey against Helen Glen Sharpe, both of Narbrook Park, Narberth, to halt the construction of an addition to the defendant's residence, was denied by Judge Harold G. Knight at Norristown, but the plaintiff was awarded $50 damages and the defendant directed to pay the costs of the action.

The addition at the side of defendant's home extended, Bailey claimed, beyond the six-foot limit to the edge of the property and thereby decreased the value of his premises.

A permit for the addition was granted by George B. Supple, Narberth building inspector, February 13, 1935. A week later the borough Board of Adjustment upheld the inspector's action.

C. P. Cook Questions Truth of Legendary Tory Hanging

Speaking of "Snapshots of Local History" before the Ardmore Rotary Club last Thursday, C. P. Cook, Merion resident and Narberth business man, questioned the truth of the legend that a miller on Old Gulph road, Lower Merion, put ground glass in flour sold to Washington's army and was subsequently hanged for treason during the American Revolution.

"I have never been able to find any authority on the printed page for the story," Cook declared.

The old mill stands beside Mill Creek on Old Gulph road north of Ardmore.

Donald M. Huber, recently appointed manager of the Main Line division of the Bell Telephone Company, was made a member of the club.

Attractively printed by the Narberth Printing Company, the guide lists emergency calls, public buildings and offices, borough officials and virtually every professional man, business firm and artisan in Narberth.

C. M. Gay Leaves Penn Professorship to Go With Franklin

BOAT MODELS IS HOBBY

Professor Charles Merrick Gay, Hagysford and Righters Mill roads, Penn Valley, has been appointed associate director in charge of marine transportation of The Franklin Institute, according to Henry Butler Allen, secretary and director of the institute. Mr. Gay has resigned from his position as professor of architectural construction at the University of Pennsylvania, with which he has been associated since 1926.

He is a graduate of Harvard (1893) and of Massachusetts Institute of Technology (1895). He was a student in architecture at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris (1896-1899).

Since boyhood, Mr. Gay has been actively interested in cruising and marine affairs. He is widely known as a student of navigation, naval architecture and naval and merchant marine history. He has been active in the establishment of marine museums in New York. Boat models, built by him, have been displayed in many marine exhibitions.

Girl Scout News

The Exhibit and Guest Day at Dove Mill Day Camp, on the Longstreth Estate in Bryn Mawr, was postponed until Friday so that the full eight days might be spent at the Main Line Day Camp.

Even though the weather was inclement, one hundred people, including thirty guests, assembled on the spacious veranda of the Longstreth home which was very hospitably offered, so that no one would be disappointed on the final day.

Kathryn Hammer, of the Cynwyd Troop 44, played Assembly on the bugle, at 2:30 P. M., followed by group singing under the direction of Betty Seasholtz, of Narberth Troop 8. "White Coral Bells" was the selection chosen. Next was a Swiss Folk dance presented by the Woody Unit (composed of the very youngest and the tiniest of the day-campers) under the direction of Kay Knox, of Wayne.

One of the most interesting parts of the program was the puppet show put on by Jean Havlick's group composed of Mary Huff, Ellen May Rush-ton, and Barbara Floyd (Martha Smith, Norma Liddle and Mary Ann Mason helped to make the puppets, but were unable to be present for the program). The play was called "In Aesop's Jungle" and the girls made the puppets during the Day Camp time of only seven days with the eighth day for the final showing.

A group composed of Florence Buchanan, Susan McGarvey, Jean McGarvey, Virginia Simons, Mary Simons, Martha Stewart, Kathryn Hammer, Elizabeth Corman (who took the place of Anna Jameison), Mary Dunlap and Miss Kay Knox (who took the place of Norma Liddle) danced three folk dances: "Crested Hen," a Danish Folk dance; "Virginia Red" and "Sicilian Circle" all of which are included in the requirements for the folk dancing badge.

The stationary exhibits, which were tastefully arranged by Miss Emma Croasdale, captain of Cynwyd Troop 44, with the assistance of Miss Helen Welker, of Oakmont Troop 33, included handicraft made during Day Camp under the direction of Mrs. Homer Eachus, captain of Merion Troops 18 and 230; sketches made under the direction of Mrs. S. Gordon Smyth, of Merwood Park; Nature in charge of Miss Caroline Justice, teacher at Miss Irwin's School; the suitcase library (which 20 volumes were kindly loaned by the Narberth Community Library) in the care of Ingeborg Thaysen, of Narberth Troop 125, and the Log and Publicity in charge of Jean Havlick.

Punch and wafers were served by Mary McDonnell and Kathryn Ham-one day for the elements to stop them. The wind blew so hard that they were forced in at Frye's Leap and got home in time for Sunday dinner. Boyd Broadhead and Bob Roberts were so adept at sleeping in the rain that they plan to take their siesta at swim period from now on.

Several Ranger teams took a trip to Camp Hawthorne on Monday and put up a very creditable showing. The riflemen were nosed out by a close margin, but Ed Peterson and Bob Paine individually matched the best that the rivals could offer. Ed put five shots in one target, which all landed in the same hole. The general consensus was that he put the first shot in the bulls-eye and then shot the rest in the air. The junior baseball team, despite brilliant two-hit pitching by Len Jones, had to be content with a 1-1 tie in a seven inning game cut short because of rain. Dick Custer, Jimmy Dykes and Howard McConnell lashed out hits and Dick Blue furnished some fancy base running for the Ranger aggregation. The tennis match was also a stalemate. Ted Collins disposed of his opponent handily, but Bob Brendlinger was forced to bow in a hard-fought match. The doubles match lost to the weather.

The inspection race this week proved to be one of the most hard fought of the season. When all the dust had cleared away, cabins 4, 8 and 13 were resting in a triple tie for first position, with five others clustered one notch behind. Dick Longaker, Rusty DeBurla and Bob Reed composed cabin 4 under Councilor Bob Allport; Boyd Broadhead, Gordon Clausen and Fred Kohloss, manned by Crow Ludlow, make up cabin 8; and Ira Fox rules over Ralph and Spencer Springer and Ted Rosengarten in cabin 13.

The softball league is still in full swing, with Pop Fowler's and Bill Miller's teams leading the pack. The two games played this week found the former subduing Tom Griffith's aggregation, while the latter had to go extra innings to conquer Bob Wood's club. Don Rheasa and Ralph Moss starred for Fowler, while Pitcher Bob Brendlinger and Billy Ryan are important cogs in Miller's machine.

Six-Foot Screen Among Lost & Found at P. O.

Someone has left his sun glasses in the Narberth Post Office, according to Postmaster Joseph L. Kelley, who is trying to clear out his Lost and Found department. And there's an expensive pair of glasses — Oxfords — in a neat brown case. Some woman left her blue and white belt. And another customer, perhaps absent-minded, left the prize of the collection. It is a leather screen, with a birch frame, mahogany finished; it's in three folds and stands nearly six feet high. Mr. Kelley wishes the owner would claim it, because it's somewhat in the way.

mer (Marie Cucurullo and Anna Jameison had been working on the hostess badge with the making of invitations) under the direction of Miss Natalie Beyer, captain of Merion Troop 207, and Katie Follin, of Wayne, who was Unit Leader for "Waterside" (the 11-year-old group).

The First Aid demonstration on the lawn took the form of artificial respiration as performed by Agnes Mary GaNun (who also passed her First Class Swimmer rating at Martin's Dam as part of the Day Camp program) and Margaret McPhail as the "victim," under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Burt, of Narberth, who acted as the First Aid expert on the Day Camp staff. Horsemanship was also demonstrated by Agnes Mary GaNun under the direction of Miss Burt. Archery was under the direction of Joan Helms, of Wayne, and the pupil chosen was Helen Wolff, of Merion, and the signaling demonstration was put on by Elizabeth Cornman, who passed many girls in her Unit "Twin Beches" during Day Camp, with the assistance of Dorothy Baker, of Cynwyd Troop 44. "Libits" Cornman made the signaling flags which were used during Day Camp.

The Pioneer Unit set up an elaborate unit in the woods under poor weather conditions the latter part of the session with Mrs. Charles Strickler (nee "Bunny" Cornman), of Ardmore Troop 93, in charge during the first week, with "Libits" Cornman, Emma Crossdale and Florence Waltz (the latter director of all the Philadelphia Day Camps), taking charge the second week. Miss Waltz put in two concentrated days' work with the Pioneer Unit the second week, including the construction of hand-made equipment and the cooking of a meal in the stone oven which they made during Day Camp.

An amusing song with gestures "Shusti-Pull!" was then sung by the entire Day Camp under the direction of Betty Seasholtz; followed by the formal closing which included the color guard (three girls in perfect Scout uniform; Agnes Mary GaNun carrying the flag and Kathryn Hammer and Eugenia Thaysen as guards); the Girl Scout salute, promise and laws by the entire group and one stanza of "Star Spangled Banner."

The goodnight circle was held on the lawn, with the guests taking part, followed by Taps played on the bugle by Kathryn Hammer which brought a lump in the throat of many present because they were conscious of the fact that Day Camp was closing for the season on the Main Line.

The latest bulletin relative to the condition of Miss Christine Mahl, who is captain of Narberth Troop 8 and president of the Main Line Leaders' Association, was very encouraging. Miss Mahl was taken to the Amsterdam Hospital for an appendectomy, while acting as co-director with Miss Dorothea Bates at the Girl Scout Camp sponsored by the Amsterdam Council "Camp Ramble Ridge."

THE INDIANS... WHO LIVED HERE

The rivers and streams of this locality abound in Indian tradition. Teeming with fish, these water courses furnished the Red Man with a staple supply of food.

The Indians of this region called themselves the Lenni Lenape, or "original people". According to tradition they had come from the west beyond the Mississippi. Later they assumed the name of "Delawares" in compliment to Lord de la Warr, who was to them a great chief.

Indian relics, such as arrow-heads, axes, tomahawks, and crude domestic implements, have been found here in great numbers. Even arrow-heads of obsidian, a hard, glass-like stone that is found only west of the Rocky Mountains, have been discovered. The presence of such arrow-heads in this locality indicates that the Indians traded with remote tribes, or else brought these stones with them at the time of their original migration.

During the construction of Springton Reservoir the remains of two very interesting Indian camps were found. Around one, crude arrow-heads and roughly wrought axes and tomahawks pointed to an early settlement. Improved implements together with some English pennies in the second camp showed a more recent habitation. Some say these later Indians intermarried with the English settlers.

Hedgerow's "St. Joan"

Plagues; Program Listed

Joan, the peasant girl from Arc, who in 1429 heard voices and freed France, and in 1920 became a saint, was the subject of George Bernard Shaw's play given at the Hedgerow Theatre in Moylan Saturday night. With deft, humor and a strong emotional climax when the girl-dictator was tried and burned, Shaw combines his usual penetrating witty philosophy.
